

REVIEWS

"Move over Raffi. [Owen] Duggan's folksy music rivals the same uptempo style... My 21-month-old and 6-1/2-year-old were literally entranced... All three of my children gravitated toward him as if he were the Pied Piper."

~ musingmama.com, May 2007

"The Ants Go Marching" – no.12 of the "Top 50 Kids Songs of All Time" – "Owen Duggan's jazzy version might be my favorite."

~ Stefan Shepherd, Zooglobber.com, April 2007

"You won't forget these cunningly creative songs, playfully performed with vigor and panache by this Texas tunesmith."

~ National Parenting Publications Awards \(NAPPA\), 2006

"Tuneful original and traditional folk and children's songs with irresistible bounce."

~ Lynne Heffley, Parents' Choice Awards, 2006

"An overall winner for young audiences anywhere. Full marks to the musicians who have crafted a very catchy, enjoyable album."

~ Nanette Kilbey-Smith, Wilson County News, Floresville, TX, August 2006

"If you have an appreciation for Raffi's work, and are looking for something else besides to play, An Elephant Never Forgets is a nice collection . . . and every bit as well done."

~ Zooglobber.com, July 2006

"Refreshingly old-school and sweet, reminiscent of the best of Burl Ives, Tom Paxton and Pete Seeger."

~ Hector Saldaña, San Antonio Express-News, July 2006.

"Duggan may be focusing his work on the young ones, but he never lets this youthful target audience limit his musical spectrum."

~ Dan MacInstosh, Indie-Music.com, July 2006.

For complete press-kit goto:
www.mixedmediapromo.com

